

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A method and apparatus for continuing the operation of a fuel fired furnace when the air supply from the blower to the furnace is interrupted by employing a combination of a ventilator and drop door, the ventilator having a 5 power source independent of the blower.